

Join us for a “Quodlibet”
@ Quièvremont Winery, Little Washington, Va
Saturday, November 18 at 7:30 p.m.

In the Medieval University, teaching masters would often sponsor public Quodlibets, through which they would field and respond to a wide variety of questions raised by their students. Students were free to ask any question they wished (within certain limits). Our Quodlibet will be structured the same way. It is almost like a “theology on tap” but without a formal talk and without the subject matter being limited to theology. You will be free to ask any question you wish to a faculty panel consisting of five professors from Christendom College. And if you don’t have any questions, at least come for the conversation which we hope will be vibrant and stimulating as well as for the good wine provided by Quièvremont and for the fine food made by Downtown Catering.

$10 cover charge, 10%-off all wine purchases
